DON'T MISS IT FOR ANYTHING.

Tomorrow, the same being Saturday, THE STAR, as is its usual and well-approved custom, will appear as a sixteen-page paper, with every page bright, snappy and readable. There will be all the news of the day from all parts of the world-not excepting Washington-and in addition the miscellaneous reading matter will be up to the standard THE STAR has set for itself and maintained with all consistency. If the servces of special correspondents in all directions, press associations, a large force of reporters and any number of special writers on special subjects of general interest can avail anything in the way of getting out a good newspaper then THE STAR of tomorrow will be worthy of the city and worthy of itself. Keep your eyes open for Saturday's STAR. If you miss it you will miss more than you can afford. Among the specially attractive articles will be:

THE PATENT CENTENNIAL (Ilustrated). The men who are preparing for the great April celebration. EARLY SPRING STYLES (Illustrated).

The committee appointed at the wage workers' meeting to obtain subscriptions to the proposed manufacturing and loan association. which is to form part of Alexandria's boom, are now at work with a certainty of obtaining sufficient subscriptions to organize the association at an early day. The projectors think that this organization will prove as profitable as the building associations here, in which over $5.50,000 are invested and which the building associations here.

$500,000 are invested and which make good returns for the capital invested. THE COMING ENGINEER. At the next meeting of the city council the bill creating the office of city engineer at $1,800 per annum, to be chosen by the city

$1,800 per annum, to be chosen by the city council, will be passed. It will be followed by the transfer of the duties and fees of the city surveyor and of the superintendent of police (street commissioner) to the city engineer. No salaries will be provided for either of these offices, and survey fees will be turned into the city treasury. No Alexandrian will be chosen city engineer, but there will be an opening for an engineer from abroad skilled in city work. THE C. & O. TRAINS TO PASS THROUGH.

Arrangements have been made by which on the 1st proximo the Chesapeake and Ohio railway company will run its trains through this city to Washington. The trains will come here on the Midlard railway and connect north on the Washington Southern railway. PROSPECTS FOR FACTORIES.

Besides the plant of glass works there is now proposal to establish a knitting factory here. The Potomac shoe factory established here last year at the large building on Prince and Fair-fax streets has found a good trade and promises a decided success.

Little Rebecca Jeffries, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Jeffries, had a pretty supper party and a little frolic with some of her baby friends yesterday to celebrate her birthday. The little guests were Master Jno. Britton, four months old; Master Sherman Chipman, Master Kilbourn Gordon, Miss Marion Hawley, Miss Elizabeth Carpenter, Miss Lilian McCook, Miss Pauline Magruder and the Misses Flora and Saidee Britton. The birthday cake had three candles burning on top of it and a wonderful birthday pie had peeping through its crust little loops of pink ribbon. This was handed around the table, each guest pulling a ribbon, to which they found either a chicken or rabbit attached. Among the other pretty things they carried home were satin eggs filled with candy.

There was a blacksmith's nammer and a part of a chisel or blacksmith's rasp found on the floor, and near them the clerk found the dial that had been broken off the safe. After break-ing the dial from the lock the burglars battered ing that the one who used the hammer had probably tried to shake off the lock after the dial and knob fell. It is possible that the burglars were frightened off before they had time to get in the safe.

Had they succeeded in opening the door they would have made a good haul, for in the safe were bonds of various institutions amounting to about $7,000, but there was less than $50 in cash. The books of the firm were also in the

A Corporal's Clever Ruse.

From the 8t. James Gazette.

Some years ago in one of the cavalry barracks a man complained that several articles of his kit had been stolen. The corporal of the room, finding that the thief could not be discovered, got a large tin mess dish and turned it upside down on the floor with the barrack room cat underneath it. Then he ordered the gas to be turned down and requested each man to touch the dish in turn, saying that the care did not mew, but the corporal suddenly cried, "I have him?" and ordered the gas to be turned up. Then he ordered the cat when the thief touched it. As a matter of fact the cat did not mew, but the corporal suddenly cried, "I have him?" and ordered the gas to be turned up. Then he ordered the gas to be turned up. Then he ordered the gas to be turned up. Then he ordered the gas to be turned up. Then he ordered the gas to be turned up. AN INGENIOUS BARBER.

How He Gets Ahead of His Cus Keeping a Clock. Barbers have splendid opportunities for

New York Herald, and when a barber has benesses of his customers he is a very slow person, so to speak, if he fails to profit by them. I know a barber down town whose long acquaintance with Americans has taught him not to keep a clock. Strange, isn't it? "And why lived a young widow. She possessed all the such madness?" I hear you say. Ah!

There's method in it. I'll tell you in his own words. "You are about the hundredth man that has saked me about the clock," said he pleasantly. Well, I'll tell you a trade secret. You know my customers are all business men and stop in my customers are all business men and stop in two or three times a week to get shaved. Whether in a hurry or not, they want to get through with all possible speed. That's one of the peculiarities of Americans. An American may have all the time in the world, but, never-theless, he'll rush his lunch and his barber all the same.

"So long as I had my clock here in the shop men would come rushing in here, take a glance at it, jump into the chair and tell me to rush them through in ten minutes, as they desired to catch a train or keep an appointment. If I didn't get through with them in that time there

The Cause of the Famous Lamp Rock Dis-covered by an English Officer. From the St. James Gazette. An interesting note comes from Capt. F. E.

Younghusband of the King's Dragoon Guards, who is again on his travels of exploration in Central Asia. He writes from his camp in the Cashgar mountains, dated October 27, 1890: "From the Alichur Pamir I returned eastward. crossed one of the branches of the Upper Oxus and made for Lake Rangkul. On the shores of this lake is the famous rock known as the Lamp Rock of Central Asia, so called because from a cave in its side aperpetual light shines through.

Ney Elias had passed by this in 1885 and had thought it might possibly be a phosphorescent light: he had not time, however, to examine it for the city post office yesterday afternoon to decide what they shall eat and drink at dinner I began a tour of the place and was given an opportunity to talk with any of the employes I desired, and to question them with the ground of out the surveillance of the young man who the whole square at $15 per foot, 11th and D was assigned to the duty of taking me about. In every nook and corner there was some queer phase of this singular life constantly presenting itself, running all the way from the highest class of dry goods to the place where they kept dogs, birds and other live stock for sale. One thing was always noticeable; that was the nest-ness in dress and the good manners and politeness of the attendants. In most instances this was in marked contrast to the half-petulant manner in which shop girls are apt to wait upon customers in the United States. Then the uniformity in dress among the women clerks is very attractive. The tight-fitting black gowns, relieved with white at the nec and the wrists, set off their perfect figures to perfection, and their good manners made shopping a pleasure instead of a trouble. Tidiness in dress, as well as politeness in speech, are valuable requisites for the English working girl, and they cultivate these graces to the limit if they want to succeed and keep to the American mind until careful inquiry is made. The saleswomen in the dress and clock department of the great establishments like Whiteley's or the "sweller" shops in Regent or Sunday they appointed morning and afternoon services. It so happened that the only build-Bond streets are the best dressed women in England, save those who dress for show in the afternoon and evening, with plenty of means to indulge their tastes for handsome garments. They wear tight-fitting black silk gowns of rich pattern, with demi-trains. They are usually tall, fine-looking women, and as they go about roof of the house were appropriated by some of the more agile boys to elevate themselves above the crowd, where, clinging on like

Under these favorable circumstances they happen to be married. Then they are the conditions the merchant imposes unless they happen to be married. Then they are permitted to sleep at home, with an extra allowance for room rent. There is usually a large parlor provided with a piano, a library with books and other arrangements for the en-tertainment of the girls after working hours. Wine or beer is usually served at dinner, and ome of the higher grades of employes have The golden mean—a miser.

A HALF-CRACKED SAFE.

Burglars Make a Visit to S. S. Daish & Son's Ware House.

The failure to open a safe and secure its contents at the store of Mr. A. V. Grimes on Pennsylvania avenue about two weeks ago did not seem to have discouraged safe burglars who are in this city. Last night they made another attempt. This time they broke and almost ruined a heavy iron safe in the feed and ware thouse of S. S. Daish & Son, corner North Capitol and D streets.

In both cases the burglars took desperate chances, but managed to escape. Mr. Grimes' and ware and women rushed out of the building through the uncovered sides or whereconfusion; men and women rushed out of the building through the uncovered sides or whereconfusion; men and women rushed out of the building through the uncovered sides or wherecever there was an aperture large enough, rollishments the merchants encourage their people to form social clubs and provide for them various kinds of amusements to help them pass away the time. Lectures and smoking contents are not time to form the posts and rolled from the roll of the saw, the time they broke and almost ruined a heavy iron safe in the feed and ware single from the posts and rolled from the to an American to be more or less demoralizing. It would be in our country, but the lives of these people seem to be so settled that nothing affects them. They are not seriously disturbed by ambitions, and appear quite satisfied to re-main clerks as long as they are obliged to labor. From their standpoint, then, they are well off, for they have no care as to where they shall sleep or how they shall get something to eat.

The care with which a merchant looks after the physical welfare of his working people is studying human nature, says a writer in the a very interesting phase of this inquiry.

A Social Leader in an Eastern City and Real Estate Agent in the West. From the Kansas City Times. Several years ago in an eastern city there

A great eastern bank failed and the young widow with-drew from society and to a small suburban cot-tage. In the financial complication her fortune was swept away and she was left with a bare was swept away and she was left with a bare maintenance. She dressed plainly and did her own marketing. She was known then as the woman who had once been wealthy and she was respected by her neighbors. Part of the time, however, she was away from home and her cottage was dark. When she was absent it was said that she was looking after her prop-erty that had been involved in the bank failure. Shortly after the young widow moved to her cottage a young man opened a real estate office fore he had been a citizen of the place two years he became the owner of a couple of business blocks. About this time he opened a saloon, and afterward another and still another. These proved paying properties. The young man lived in the western city four years. At the end of that time he disposed of all of his property and returned to the east.

In the meantime in the eastern city the young widow had built a costly home and finally she again entered the social portal, more wealthy, more brilliant, more sought after than she was before the bank failed. It was said that she had saved a little from the wreck of her former fortune and judicious investment in Thoroughly Fair-Minded.

From the St. Paul Globe.

A short time ago one of St. Paul's prominen dealers in musical instruments gave an opening embracing an attractive entertainment, to the public. The succeeding day a young man denominated in circus patois as a "Reub" walked leisurely into the establishment and said:

"Got any ice cream on draught?"
"This is not a refreshment bazaar," repli salesman, softly.
"I knowed that, but yer had some in h yesterday."
"Oh, yes, that was an opening day, and we

"Oh, yes, that was an opening day, and we did entertain a large number of our friends with cream. You should have been around."
"I warn't, though; but I kinder reckened you might have some left over. Couldn't yer manage to give way some if a man was to buy a musical instrument?" and the youth picked up a $40 guitar, thrummed it carclessiy, at the same time resting his basilisk eye on a $550 upright piano.
"I think we could; Charlie, see if there isn't some cream in the back room for this gentle-ice.

"Yer give some cake, too, yesterday, I us

"Yer give some case, too, jerral derstand."

A plate of macaroons, jelly cake and lady's fingers was promptly placed beside him, after which he demanded a glass of ice water. The repast over, he re-entered the sales room, wiping his mouth on the back of a big hand.

"Wall, I'm through," he said.

"Yes, sir, now what can I do for you?"

"Of course I don't propose to eat your cream under false pretenses. You've toted square with me an' I'll tote squar with you. You may give me one of them nickel-apiece hasoos I see
